

Superheroes

THE earliest superheroes appeared in comic books in the 1930s. Some of them such as Captain Marvel are less well known today but others from that era, Superman for example, are still with us. They appear in feature films, cartoons, on television, as well as in comics and a new type of fiction called 'graphic novels'. Such is their appeal that many of them – Batman, Superman and Wonder Woman, to name but three – are known throughout the world and their stories are told in many languages.

OF COURSE superheroes may be popular all over the world, but that does not mean that everybody likes them. Some people argue that their adventures are far-fetched and unrealistic. They are accused of having a harmful influence on children who put themselves in danger by copying their heroes' impossible deeds. Others enjoy the stories for their excitement, suspense and escape from reality. Fans revel in knowing every detail about their superheroes: their individual powers, their intriguing costumes, their unique physical features – even their family backgrounds.

While fans may be interested in the detailed differences between these characters, there are certain features they have in common and which they have to possess in order to qualify as 'superheroes'.

must have:

-  extraordinary powers – they may have the ability to appear and disappear, fly, or see with x-ray vision;
-  superhuman strength – they have to be exceptionally strong and fast;
-  a sharp mind – they must be quick thinkers to detect clues, to unravel mysteries and decide on the course of action;
-  a sense of justice – they fight crime, never give in, always do the right thing for the good of others;
-  courage – they are always willing to take risks to save others;
-  skills to take on any evil – they are able to battle against a single individual, or a thousand, against humans, animals or enemies from another planet;
-  a secret identity – they lead double lives as part-time heroes, part-time ordinary humans;
-  a special costume – they are recognised as superheroes by their unique outfits;

AND THEY ALWAYS TRIUMPH ...
... in the end.
